Overpass Work Will Start Soon

Barricades Will Go Up

Construction barricades for the Parker Rd. Overpass project will be erected soon.

The two lane bridge over US 75 will be replaced by a six-lane structure and two additional connector roads from Parker to the frontage roads will also be added.

Concho Construction Co. won the $908,206.75-project with the low of six bids. The company has 180 working days to complete the contract with full operation anticipated in mid-summer of 1978.

"We'll get the barricades up immediately," promised Concho's Ed Fullbright at a pre-construction meeting Thursday. "Work should begin next week. The first step will be to establish the detour routes."

"Initial operations will also involve dirt embankments for bridge approaches," he continued. "Foundation work for the northern half of the new bridge will be directly north of the present structure."

Traffic will be carried on the present facility until completion of the north half of the new bridge and the connector roads in the northwest and northeast quadrants of the interchange, stressed James M. Huffman resident engineer in McKinney with the State Dept. of Highways and Public Transportation.

Traffic will then be rerouted to the completed portions of the project and the existing structure will be torn down and replaced by the southern portion of the new structure.

Fullbright predicted that with average weather conditions traffic could be on the new bridge by October and the old bridge removed by Nov. 1. He warned that another winter like last year's could push completion of the project to August or September, however.

City-highway department cooperation made the project possible, according to Huffman who will be the department's engineer in charge of the project. District Engineer John G. Keller of Dallas will be in overall supervision of the work.

Drought Product

Although there has been considerable moisture in the air during the past few days, grass is tinder dry. Plano firefighters were called out to battle two grass fires Thursday, one of them major. About 20 to 25 acres of deep grass was burned off shortly after 2 p.m. in an undeveloped section of Hunters' Glen. Firemen were hampered in their efforts because the site of the blaze, west of Custer Rd. and south of Dallas North Airport, was far removed from any water supply. The department also extinguished a grass fire behind 2705 Winterstone at 5:28 p.m. and a trash fire north of Wells Brothers and east of SH 5 at 10:38 a.m. (Staff photo by Mike Newman).

Hamrick, Roberts Get Promotions

Garland division manager Jack Brown has named Jack Hamrick, division service facilities manager in Plano and Bob Roberts, service office supervisor of contact-records in Garland.

The position of division service facilities manager, newly-created in Plano this May, replaces that of customer service manager. Hamrick was named acting customer service manager in Plano in January, 1977, replacing Roberts.

Roberts began his association with Plano in 1970 as local manager, district manager and, later, customer service manager.

The Plano resident has long been active in civic affairs. Community involvements include the Rotary Club, Hospital Authority, Chamber of Commerce, United Way, and First Methodist Church in Plano, as well as the Dallas Metropolitan United Way and Citizens Long Range Planning Commission.

Before coming to Plano, Roberts worked for General Telephone in the San Angelo headquarters, joining the company in 1959 as a statistician.

In his current position, Roberts is responsible for the contact-records section in the Garland business office.

As division service facilities manager in Plano, Hamrick is responsible for the control of service facilities operations and the coordination of personnel and activities relating to customer service.

His career with the telephone industry began with General Telephone of California in 1956 as central office installer. Hamrick joined General Telephone of the Southwest seven years ago as plant service supervisor in the central office in Irving and has held numerous positions with General in the Dallas metropolitan area.

Hamrick, his wife Barbara and their two children live at 4801 Brandenburg in The Colony.

The Army veteran has been active in Toastmasters, the Jaycees, Industrial Management Clubs and Optimists Clubs in California, and with Rotary and Chambers of Commerce in Texas.

He is currently attending Cooke County Junior College in Gainesville working toward a major in business administration.

I&R Keeps Kathi Busy

BY TERRI ANDERSON

Hoping to provide a convenient and central source of information for the people of Plano, Kathi Muse is in the midst of plans for the city's Information and Referral Service which should begin operations June 6.

Funded in part by the United Way, the I&R Service will offer telephone aid to citizens needing assistance from local agencies or in need of general information about Plano.

"Why should people remain confused and disoriented on simple issues?" noted Mrs. Muse. "At this time there isn't a central location in Plano for information. It's now difficult to get information channeled to the right person or agency."

"I feel most of your human services are designed to help people help themselves, and this is the role I see the I&R playing," she continued. "We won't be going to people's homes taking them places, but we will help them find where they can go to find an answer to their problem or need."

When the service opens in June, volunteers will staff three telephones in an office located in the old Douglass school building. According to the service's director, the I&R will perform three major functions.

"We will be a link within the community linking the caller and agency best designed to answer the caller's question or alleviate his need," explained Mrs. Muse, who holds a degree in psychology. "One phone call can answer a lot of confusing questions."

Secondly, the service will refer people who wish to do volunteer work in Plano to groups needing their help. And finally, through keeping accurate records of all calls received, the I&R can assist the community in long-range planning of needed social services or agencies.

A newcomer to Plano, Mrs. Muse was hired as the part-time director of the I&R. She has experience working with the mentally retarded, the elderly, and with an organization called Helpline which was somewhat similar to Plano's I&R.

"I'm people-oriented, so this is something I've wanted to do," she explained. "I think having an I&R can mean all the difference in being pleased or displeased with the community. And the happier people are with Plano, the more they'll want to contribute."

Since assuming her position a month ago, Mrs. Muse has been involved in training volunteers to man the Information and Referral Service office when it opens. Interested persons are being trained by the Dallas I&R's trainer.

"Ideally we hope to have 30 volunteers," said the director. "About 20 are signed up now and I've been very pleased with the response."

Besides answering calls for information (all of which are confidential), the volunteers will call different social service agencies to follow up on calls for help. It will be important, Mrs. Muse stressed, to see that the people who call the I&R actually receive the aid they ask for.

More volunteers are needed for the I&R Service and donations are also being requested. Kathi Muse can be contacted for either reason by calling 422-4564.

Relay Run Planned By Plano Team

Ten Planoiters—including a city councilman and four members of the Plano Senior High School track squad—will join forces this afternoon and attempt to run 170 miles in a 24-hour relay.

Beginning at 3 p.m., the squad will use the Vines High School track, and interested Planoiters are invited to watch the team run. Although the aim is 170 miles—the equivalent of running a mile every eight minutes for the 24-hour period—the current world record is 297 miles for the 24-hour relay.

'Impossible Flight' Made By Lindbergh

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roosevelt Field is now just one of hundreds of shopping centers that crowd suburban Long Island, but 50 years ago today it was the start of an "impossible flight" that turned a stunt pilot into a world hero.

On that morning the mist hung low over the muddy air strip. The damp air slowed, but did not stop, the 220-horsepower engine that had to carry "The Spirit of St. Louis" 3,600 miles to Paris.

The wheels of the gray-white Ryan monoplane began to roll in the mud. The pilot, Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., gentled the stick back, got airborne, bounced back to earth, rose again. He cleared a tractor by 10 feet, cleared a string of telephone wires, and began riding the foggy springtime sky into history.

As the news began to spread of what many considered a suicidal attempt, in the words of the late Edward R. Murrow, "the world quieted down." Announcer Joe Humphries at the Sharkey-Maloney fight asked for a minute of silence for the boy in the plane. People hung onto sparse radio bulletins.

"No attempt at humor today," Will Rogers wrote in his column. "An old slim bashful smiling boy is somewhere out over the middle of the Atlantic...."

The motor never faltered but it did die once, on purpose. Lindbergh saw some fishing boats, dived to 50 feet, cut the motor, and shouted over the side the most remarkable traffic-direction query ever: "Which way is Ireland?"

He got no reply. He had no radio, one engine, no parachute, five sandwiches, and a homemade periscope to see over the gasoline tank in front of him.

When the 25-year-old former stunt flyer, wing walker, airmail pilot, and daredevil parachutist landed at Le Bourget airport at 10:24 p.m., Paris time, Saturday — 3,600 miles nonstop alone — the world went wild in adulation.

In one daring act, he opened the modern aviation era and prepared the world for commercial air travel.

Volunteers are currently being trained to staff the Information and Referral Service of Plano, which should open on June 6 according to director Kathi Muse. A newcomer to Plano, Mrs. Muse said that she has seen the need for such a service to coordinate information-giving in the city. Three telephones will operate from the old Douglass school building when the service opens. Anyone wishing to volunteer or to donate money for the project should contact Mrs. Muse at 422-4564. Alma Road Now Open

The long-awaited Alma Rd. connection between Park Blvd. and Parker Rd. is now open.

The two-lane section was opened to traffic Thursday morning after the addition of a temporary connection to the new pavement just south of the Park-Alma intersection.

Developers will be responsible for widening the roadway to its ultimate design of six lanes when the area begins to develop.

Alma sections between Parker and the bridge over Spring Creek and between Park and Fm 544 were opened to traffic earlier. Construction problems delayed the bridge opening.

Message Prepared For Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter moved ahead today on preparation of messages to Congress on the environment, welfare reform and tax reform.

A "broad-based" set of proposals on the environment, dealing not just with parks and recreation areas "but the work place," is on Carter's desk, aides said, and will be sent to Capitol Hill early next week.

Meantime, Carter had a full day of business on tap, including an hourlong meeting in the afternoon with former President Gerald Ford.

He also planned to meet with a group of out-of-town reporters, and was expected to be asked to assess the possibility of a Middle East peace in view of the change in the Israeli government.

The President was completing work on a welfare reform program which has been approved by senior aides in several Cabinet departments including Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. Carter has directed that the program not exceed present welfare costs.

Before submission to Congress however, the welfare plan, which will focus on jobs and cash benefits, will be submitted to the governors of each of the 50 states for their views.

A tax reform plan will be ready for Congress late this summer, with the "tilt" for tax advantages aimed at the lower income groups rather than business, according to Stuart Eizenstat.

J.F. Skelton was advanced to chairman and chief executive of Texas Power & Light Co. and Robert K. Campbell was named president of TP&L at a meeting of the company's board of directors in Dallas.

Campbell was also named a director at a meeting of company stockholders.

Skelton was TP&L president and chief executive and Campbell was a vice president, prior to the board action.

Skelton joined Texas Power & Light in 1937 as a clerk and secretary in the executive department. His association with the company was interrupted by Army Air Force service in World War II.

Through the years he has served TP&L as accountant, district and division manager, assistant vice president, financial vice president, executive vice president and general manager, and since 1972, president and chief executive of the company.

Campbell, a native of Chicota, joined Texas Power & Light in 1959, as controller. He was named assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the company in 1964 and became vice president in 1972. In this capacity, Campbell has been responsible for the power department, the rates and wholesale power department and Public Utility Commission matters.

He received his B.A. and M.E. degrees from East Texas State University and is a Certified Public Accountant.

Campbell is married to the former Donna Jo Poole of Chicota. They have three children: Rick, 28, a CPA employed by Houston Lighting and Power; Mark, 22, a medical student at Texas Medical School in Houston; and Stacy, 11, who attends Dallas public schools.

Benefits Described

Texas veterans may be eligible to attend State supported universities and junior colleges without having to pay tuition or fees, according to Troy Corzine of Plano, Veterans Service Officer for Collin County.

This benefit is available when a wartime veteran has used up his Federal "GI Bill" entitlement or the time limit for the use of the benefit has expired. The assistance is provided by a State law, the Hazlewood Act, which has been incorporated into Chapter 54 of the Texas Education Code.

The exemption is available to veterans of the Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II, the Korean Conflict, the Post-Korean Period and the Vietnam Era. In addition to wartime service, the veteran must have been a legal resident of Texas at the time he entered military service.

This benefit is also available to the children of Texas servicemen who died in military service, and to the children of Texas military personnel who are missing in action or prisoners of war. The eligibility is also extended to children of Texas National Guardsmen killed since Jan. 1, 1946 while on active duty either in the service of the State of Texas or the United States.

Any person claiming this benefit must also be a legal resident of Texas at the time application is made for the exemption.

Application should be made directly to the registrar of the college or university the eligible person plans to attend.

In most cases, proof of military service and residence, which are included on the veteran's DD 214 or equivalent, are all that is required.

Please make every effort to be at this meeting so that your club can have a say in these important matters.

Two Collin County 4-H Horse Judging teams participated in the District 4-H Horse Judging Contest held in Dallas on May 7. The individuals on these teams were selected at county level by elimination contest held in March.

Collin County's Junior team, composed of Libby West of Plano and Randy Fulton of Wylie, received ninth place at the contest with a combined score of 695.

The Senior team for Collin County placed sixth in overall competition with a team score of 1338. Members of the Senior team were Rhonda Brannon, Ellie West, and Barbara Hoorman, all from Plano, and Kathy Stubbins from Wylie.

Competition at the contest was stiff with only 23 points separating our teams from first place. This was the first year that any of our members had been on the horse judging team.

Church Slates Special Guests

Canyon Creek Baptist Church in Richardson has extended a special invitation to the public to attend special services this Sunday at 10 and 11:15 a.m.

Dale Evans Rogers is returning to Canyon Creek Baptist and will give her personal testimony as well as sing at both services. Also, Terry Schurch, one of America's leading magicians and illusionists will bring his team to the church.

Teenagers will meet at 10 a.m. at the Canyon Creek Cinema for a special program with football player Dave Tipton of the New England Patriots. Special children's churches will feature child evangelist Tony Cuellar as well as gospel magician Schurch.

As owner and performer of one of the largest full evening magic and illusion shows in the U.S. today, and having been a performing magician for more than 15 years, Schurch will present some unusual and interesting illusions.

Some of those he will feature include cutting his wife in thirds, the guillotine illusion, the princess of the air—a floating lady, and an act using trained white doves.

It has been said that Schurch has probably been "hung" more times than any Baptist preacher living. After the service Sunday, he will be bound by a straight jacket, hung by the ankles from a crane, helicopter or other available lifting device and will attempt to escape in record time.

By ROBERT L. HANEY
TAES Science Writer
An experimental backyard garden near Plano has yielded 1,778 pounds of vegetables and small fruit on 1,776 square feet of land (about 42 x 42.3).

That's more than a pound of food from each square foot of garden. The value of the vegetables and fruit were calculated to be worth more than $900 retail.

The back-yard garden was started in the fall of 1974 by a research scientist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Renner.

It was established to help draw some economic guidelines for those who are serious in producing homegrown vegetables. The scientist, Benny J. Simpson, kept a record of all costs except labor.

Expenses totaled $80.39 so the garden had a net value of $823.18. Simpson is quick to point out that the net value would be eaten up by hired labor.

Costs were broken down like this: vegetable seed, $17.10; 10 bunches of Hamburger onion plants, $14.95; 100 Comanche Blackberry plants at $10.00, depreciated over 10 years, $1.00; Bacillus thuringiensis, 11-3 ounces, $.98; chemical pesticides, 6 1/2 ounces, $2.07; fungicide, 2 ounces, $1.19; fertilizer, $2.84; water, 11,544 gallons at $.60 per thousand feet, $.69; and rototiller, depreciated over 6 years, $33.33.

Simpson says he didn't figure charges for labor, compost, organic mulch, or small garden tools such as hoes, rakes and shovels. The smallest possible containers of pesticides were purchased and the garden was charged only with the amount used. Flow rates of water were measured with a meter and all applications were timed for the exact amount used.

Now what did Simpson actually harvest? In April, there was a total yield of 161.9 pounds of lettuce, English peas, green onions, turnips, and turnip greens for a total value of $58.40.

In May, he harvested 173.7 pounds of Chinese cabbage, English peas, broccoli, cauliflower, green beans, squash, and blackberries worth $91.52.

In June, 407 pounds of tomatoes, beans, blackberries, broccoli, squash, cucumbers, sweet peppers, jalapeno peppers, eggplant, and purple hull peas were harvested for a total value of $229.19.

In July, Simpson harvested 215 pounds of onions, purple hull peas, beans, tomatoes, eggplant, cucumbers, sweet peppers, jalapeno peppers, and okra for a total of $81.05.

In August, 180.9 pounds of tomatoes, okra, sweet peppers, eggplant, jalapeno peppers, and cucumbers were harvested for a value of $92.16.

In September, 255.9 pounds of okra, jalapeno peppers, tomatoes, eggplant, sweet peppers, squash and bell peppers were harvested and valued at $148.14.

In October, the garden yielded 225.6 pounds of squash, tomatoes, broccoli, cauliflower, eggplant, long yellow sweet peppers, jalapeno peppers, bell peppers, turnip greens, cucumbers, and English peas were valued at $145.78.

In November, Simpson harvested 158.12 pounds of cauliflower, broccoli, turnip greens, turnips, tomatoes, squash, eggplant, jalapeno peppers, and English peas for a total value of $57.33.

Simpson points out that in very few years do we have as severe a winter as 1976, so yields could have been even higher.

Generally, Plano gets the first killing frost about Nov. 17 and it has little effect on true cool-season vegetables such as turnips, broccoli, and cauliflower. December is then a rather mild month and can be quite productive.

But in 1976, the first frost came on Oct. 20, a severe frost occurred on Nov. 5, and on Nov. 28-29 the temperatures were so severe that turnips below ground were completely frozen. All cool-season crops were frozen and the 1976 garden ended.

But Simpson, like all who work the soil, is quite optimistic about this year. He points out that his yields have gone up each year, and that with a bit of luck, he expects a really bumper harvest in 1977.

ASK DOC GARDNER

by NEIL SPERRY

Dear Doc: Leaves of our Indian hawthorne are covered with tiny dark spots. Is this a disease? What chemical can we use?

That's a fun leaf spot, Fabrea by name. Not only is it a problem on hawthornes, but also on pears, photinias and other rose family plants. It's most serious during cool, wet weather as we've had the past month. Benomyl or captan will each give good control.

Dear Doc: We have to dig up our sewer line which, unfortunately, means we'll lose a nice maple tree. Is it too late to transplant it. That is, is the risk worth the effort? It's 10 feet tall.

It depends a lot on its vigor and how long it's been where it is now. Chances are probably 50-50 that it will survive, dependent, of course, on your getting a tight soil ball with as many roots as possible intact. Thin out the top growth by at least 50-60 percent to compensate for transplant shock from root loss. You should also invest in an anti-dessicant such as Wilt-Pruf, available from many nurseries, to help conserve the tree's moisture.

Dear Doc: What would cause leaves of our magnolia to drop?

Normal growth. This is changeover time, the season to shed old foliage and put out the new. No cause for concern so long as it's the old leaves that are dropping.

Dear Doc: What are the knots all over our pecan leaves? They're marble-sized and ugly.

Phylloxera galls. These are one main reason for dormant oil spraying. At this point there's no control, as the damage is already done. Spray next January to prevent a recurrence.

Fireblight Is Explained

County Agent Describes Remedy

A sudden wilting and browning of new growth on pear tree twig tips means the trees are probably infected with fireblight.

Fireblight is a bacterial disease that can severely damage and even kill pear trees, points out James R. Risinger, Collin County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. And the disease has been on the increase in Texas.

Fireblight bacteria overwinter in holdover cankers on limbs and large branches. Cankered areas are darker than the surrounding healthy bark and usually slightly sunken and rough. During warm, moist, spring weather, a brownish, sticky liquid oozes from the cankers. The liquid is filled with bacteria which can be carried by wind, rain and insects to succulent growth on the same or nearby trees.

The first step in controlling the disease is to locate the holdover cankers and cut them out, says Risinger. Disinfect the wounds with a solution of one part household bleach to nine parts water and then cover with a tree wound paint. Also, use the solution to disinfect the knife or pruning tools between cuts.

Next, cut off the brown, dead portion of each twig at least eight inches below the infection. Again, dip the pruning tool in the bleach solution between cuts to avoid spreading the bacteria.

Remove all the pruned material from the area and burn it, emphasizes Risinger.

To reduce susceptibility to fireblight next year, be careful not to overfertilize with nitrogen. Too much nitrogen causes lush, succulent growth which is easily invaded by fireblight bacteria.

Also, avoid heavy pruning, cautions Risinger. This, too, promotes lush growth as well as encourages the growth of watersprouts which are susceptible to fireblight infection. Watersprouts are vigorous, upright shoots that arise from the trunk or main branches. They should be removed as they appear and the area disinfected and covered with tree paint.

Copper bordeaux spray will help reduce fireblight spread, notes Risinger.

Copper bordeaux is usually applied at petal fall and at 10-day intervals for three applications. Be sure to follow label directions closely.

Grass Tips Given

Grass is sun-loving and is often difficult to grow in shaded areas in the home lawn. But there are a few steps a homeowner can take to improve grass performance in those "difficult to grow" area, says James R. Risinger, Collin County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A shade problem can be lessened by proper pruning of shrubs and trees. This also improves air circulation, which also helps reduce turf diseases more prevalent in shady areas. When pruning, do not top or stub back large limbs but prune selectively to thin out the top by removing branches at their point of origin.

Pruning can be done practically any time of the year, Risinger points out.

However, the best time for evergreens is late spring or early summer after new spring growth. Early spring flowering plants should be pruned immediately after flowering. Deciduous trees should be carefully pruned over a period of several years to avoid removing too many leaves at any one time.

Tree roots compete with grass for moisture and nutrients in the soil and also cause it to weaken. This can be even more critical if the overhead umbrella-like canopy of leaves prevent rainfall penetration into the turf below.

While soil moisture is important, keeping the soil constantly wet can also be harmful to both tree and grass roots. A thorough soaking at seven to 10-day intervals during the heat of summer is best. Allow the soil to become slightly dry before watering again.

Regarding fertilization, slightly increase fertilizer rates for a shaded lawn to compensate for the needs of the tree and grass.

After completing the necessary pruning, plant a grass that has shade tolerance, Risinger said. In Central Texas, St. Augustine grass is the most tolerant of shaded areas. Plant the grass in the spring after the soil temperature is about 70 degrees F. The warm soil promotes fast growth and rapid establishment of the grass cover.

Once established, grass in shaded areas should be mowed at least one-half inch higher than grass growing in full sun. This provides a greater leaf surface to utilize available sunlight.

In deeply shaded areas where pruning is not possible or feasible, ground covers are the only answer, contends Risinger. Some of the more common ground covers include English Ivy, ajuga and big-leafed periwinkle. If these won't grow under the existing conditions, the next best solution is to use a mulch of bark or gravel.

Book On Minigardens Is Available

Even if you don't have a house with a big yard, you can still be a vegetable gardener. As long as you have a patio, a balcony, a doorstep or even a windowsill, you have enough space for a minigarden.

And the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has a booklet that outlines how to get the best results from your project. For a copy of "Minigardens for Vegetables," send 35 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 111E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

To start your minigarden, you'll need containers big enough for the plants when they're fully grown. You can use plastic or clay pots, an old pail, a plastic bucket, a bushel basket, a wire basket, or a wooden box.

If you use solid plastic containers, allow for drainage. Drill four or more 1/4-inch holes, spaced evenly along the sides, near the bottom. Then, to help drainage, put about a half-inch of coarse gravel in the bottom of each container. All right. What next?

First, use a commercial potting soil (or your own home-made version of it—the book tells you how). Because it is free of plant disease organisms and weed seeds and holds moisture well, it will probably work better than regular soil.

What do you want to grow? If you have full sunlight, you can grow just about anything. If you have some shade, you can still grow root and leaf vegetables. And if you have a still shadier area, put the leaf vegetables like lettuce there.

When you buy either your seeds or your plants, look for miniature varieties. They will work best in your minigarden. And look for types that are disease resistant.

Once your plants are in the containers, keep them watered, but don't over-water them. It is time to water when the soil is dry down to a depth of 1/8-inch. But don't water the plants so late in the evening that the leaves stay wet at night. Wet leaves encourage plant diseases.

By the way, you don't really even need a patio for vegetables. You might try some herbs on the windowsill. A six-inch pot of chives will keep you harvesting all year long.

"Minigardens for Vegetables" is one of more than 200 federal publications of consumer interest listed in the Spring edition of the "Consumer Information Catalog." Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the Catalog is free. Just send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

LawnS and Gardens

For Fall

Plant Mums Now

Chrysanthemums are a fine source of fall flowers all over Texas, and now is the time to start new plants for bloom this fall.

"If you have plants from last year, cuttings taken now can provide transplants in a few short weeks," points out Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Four-to-five-inch tip cuttings stripped of their lower leaves and placed in sand or a mix of half sand and half peat moss will root quickly."

"A rooting hormone is often helpful but not essential. Keep the cuttings moist during the rooting period and place them in a bright area but not in direct sun. By starting these new plants and destroying the old clumps, disease problems can often be avoided," says Welch.

Mums prefer a sunny site with well-drained soil and plenty water during the summer. Pinching the terminal buds promotes branching, more flowers and sturdier plants. However, buds should not be pinched after August 1 as this will delay flowering.

"Place the rooted cuttings 18 to 24 inches apart and apply small amounts of a complete fertilizer such as 13-13-13 several times during the summer before Aug. 15. Watch for insects, especially aphids which can severely weaken or retard the plants," cautions Welch.

If you have recently received a pot of florist mums, you may be successful in transplanting them to the landscape. After the blossoms begin to fade, cut the plants back to four or five inches in height. Since there are usually three or more plants per pot, Welch advises separating them by cutting the soil ball with a sharp knife, leaving a sizable ball on each plant.

If the plants have not been weakened too severely by long periods of exposure to dark areas or too much or too little water, they will usually begin growing quickly and form sizable plants in time for fall blooming, notes the horticulturist.

"Chrysanthemums are light sensitive plants and flower when the day length shortens in the fall," says Welch. "Since varieties vary as to when flowering begins, it is possible to have mums bloom from late September to heavy frost by selecting early, mid-season and late flowering types."

Oldtime Ripoff

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — In the 1920's, store fashion buyers on return from Paris introduced flesh-colored silk hosiery. The idea of matching a woman's hosiery to her skin was startling. Even more startling were the hosiery's prices — ranging from $250 to $500, according to L'eggs Products, whose pantyhose today sell from $1.39.

Cotton Increase Foreseen

Local Farmers Plan 16% Planting Increase

By BILLINGS D. BARNARD
Economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas

Cotton exports have surged, giving Collin County farmers an attractive alternative to growing grain, especially grain sorghum.

By April, sales overseas had already exceeded the 4.9 million bales originally forecast for this market year. And the year does not end until July.

Exports began turning sharply upward in December, when 60 percent more cotton was sold overseas than a year earlier. In January, sales were up 65 percent over a year before. And in February, they were up more than 70 percent to the highest level in three years.

As exports pulled above year-before levels, farmers quickly moved to revise their plans for planting. By April, planting intentions had been boosted to 13.6 million acres. That was 17 percent more than last year.

Nearly all the additional acreage will come out of the production of grain sorghum. Nationwide, the acreage planted to grain sorghum will probably be 2.1 million less than last year. A reduction of 11 percent, that is just about enough to make up the increase in cotton acreage.

With grain prices weak, the outlook is for planting of most grains to be cut back. But except for land usually planted to sorghum, and some wheat, little of the acreage being released is suitable for cotton.

That means roughly half the country's cotton acreage will be in Texas.

Texas usually grows about a third of the country's cotton. But this year, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service shows Texas farmers intend to plant 6.3 million acres to cotton. Over 30 percent more than last year, that will be the most cotton acreage in this state since 1962.

Planting in Texas will, in fact, account for three-fourths of the total increase in cotton acreage. And it may account for even more of the increase in actual production.

In California, which usually produces about a fifth of the cotton, growers indicate they will increase plantings to 1.4 million acres, a fourth more than in 1976. As in Texas that will be the most cotton planted in 15 years.

But the situation is different in California. Unlike Texas, where moisture conditions are good, California has a drought. Whether growers there can carry out their plans will depend on the availability of water.

Meanwhile, in other big cotton area, acreage is being shifted to soybeans. In the Mississippi Delta, for example, where another fifth of the cotton is usually grown, some farmers are cutting back on cotton acreage to take advantage of high soybean prices.

Some of the expanded cotton production will go into rebuilding inventories. By August, when the new marketing year begins, cotton stocks will be the lowest in 25 years.

Most of the expansion, however, has been spurred by demand from overseas. Compared with foreign demand for cotton, changes in domestic consumption have been slight.

In response to the rise in foreign demand, growers in West Texas will increase their cotton acreage 28 percent. That is according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, which shows cotton acreage in West Texas expanding from 3.9 million last year to five million.

Northeast Texas farmers—which includes those in the Plano area—will plant 16 percent more cotton acreage, expanding their plantings from 475,000 acres last year to 550,000.

In South Texas, farmers intend to plant 780,000 acres, compared with 435,000 last year. That will be a 79-percent increase in their cotton acreage.

To expand cotton production, Texas farmers will reduce their total planting of grain sorghum by a fourth.

The state agency reports sorghum acreage will be cut 35 percent in West Texas, 18 percent in Northeast Texas, and 14 percent in South Texas.

Clearing a cloudy tumbler

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — My glass tumblers have become very cloudy, but switching dishwasher detergents and soaking with vinegar did not help. What can I do? — JULIE.

DEAR JULIE — This cloudiness could be caused by hard water that would leave a soap film. You might fill the glasses with a diluted solution of household ammonia, let them stand for a while and then wash and rinse with hot water. Sometimes adding two or three tablespoons of water conditioner to the hot detergent suds and leaving them to soak for a few hours will help. Rinse and scrub out with a stiff bottle brush. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns ladies' slacks. Why must the elastic be sewn directly to the casing. It makes it so exasperating and difficult when it is necessary to put in new elastic. I am by no means the only one with this complaint. — ALICE N.

DEAR POLLY — Set aside a special time each day for your "Friendship Hour" when you telephone a shut-in, write a get well card or a long newsy letter to a lonesome person, bake some cookies for an elderly friend or make a personal visit. You will be surprised at what you can accomplish in even 15 minutes set aside for this purpose and it gives you a warm glow for the rest of the day.

When starting a day of cleaning I pick and arrange a bouquet of flowers for the living room before I start and this gives me a lift of spirits and an incentive to clean.

In our church circle we exchange coupons by placing our extra ones in a box and taking out any we can use. Some may use one kind of coffee and some another and so on with dog food, cleaning supplies, etc. None are wasted and the new products are tried. — MRS. A.W.G.N.

DEAR POLLY — I know the following is a good Pointer, since I have spent many hours trying to remove stains from bathtubs. After using many things with no success I tried using catsup. It was spread where the stains were, let stand for a few hours and then washed away with warm water. The tub was clean and white. — LILLIAN.

DEAR POLLY — To clean hair brushes I rinse them thoroughly in cold water to which I have added a generous amount of ammonia. I shake them and put in the open air to dry and the ammonia removes the dirt like magic.

When paint brushes have paint dried on them I clean them by letting the brushes simmer in white vinegar for about 10 minutes. — E.G.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper-coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Start exercise by walking

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 61 years old, 5 feet 3 and 1/2 inches and weigh 170 pounds. I would so like to lose some weight, especially around my hips and stomach. I had a complete hysterectomy six weeks ago and I am afraid to do exercises. Could you help me on this problem?

I have become very depressed and discouraged. I have high blood pressure and my nerves are about gone.

DEAR READER — It is wise not to do exercises that involve an area where surgery has been done until your doctor tells you it is O.K. for you. That means you will need to wait on doing sit ups and leg lifts. But if you feel fairly good you could start a walking program.

Start by walking 15 minutes a day and gradually increase it until you can walk an hour every day. If you have time you may be able to walk even more. The more you can build up your walking program and keep it up the easier it will be for you to lose weight.

There is no such thing as spot reducing, despite all the money that is spent on this. If you lose fat you lose it because you are using more calories than you are taking in.

ASTRO-GRAPH Bernice Bede Osol

For Saturday, May 21, 1977

May 21, 1977

Advancement and a commensurate reward are likely in your chosen area this year if you'll tie up the loose ends. They may seem insignificant, but they're important.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You and an associate are both heavy today on the mental end of the spectrum. Unfortunately, you may both fall short on execution.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're sensible in handling your resources today, there's no reason not to realize a profit. Subdue possible urges to gamble or be extravagant.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though you're willing to bend over backward to accommodate friends today, you may not be similarly inclined toward family.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Good intentions must be acted on if anything is to come of them. The longer you tarry, the more reasons you'll find for inaction.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Give freely of your time and advice to friends today, but think twice before granting a loan. Money has ruined more than one close relationship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's important to live up to your instinct for fair play today. You could have an inclination to take the lion's share for yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a possibility you could read more into a companion's remark than was intended. Don't stew. Ask the person for clarification.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You mirror the conduct of those you associate with today. If they're productive, you will be too; if they waste time, you'll follow suit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Feb. 19) Shop talk or a recitation of your ambitions won't interest others today. You might as well stow the heavy stuff and have fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Use those resourceful and innovative qualities you abound in at work today. They'll serve far better than mundane methods.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't use any new procedures today unless you know all the details. Operating on incomplete information could bring about losses.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your ideas on how to balance the budget are very clever today, but it will take some real selling to convince your mate.

To find out more about yourself, send for a copy of Bernice Osol's Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

Growing Things

Why do humans have such an affinity for growing things? Every home no matter how small has at least one green plant that is tenderly nurtured. Perhaps this is the only way many of us can maintain our contact with God. Whenever we see evidence of new growth we are reminded that God is still at work in the world.

Spiritual growth is much more subtle, but it is every bit as important. Are you continuing to experience spiritual growth, just as your plants experience new growth?

If you have lost touch with your church, make a renewed effort to attend this Sunday. You will experience new growth as a result.

Briefs

Polish Play Has Wit, Little Action
BERLIN (UPI) — Polish playwright Slawomir Mrozek's play "Buckel (Hunchback)" had its German premiere in West Berlin's Schloss Park Theater recently.

The play shows little action, but concentrates on intellectual wit and absurdities.

The play tells the story of two frustrated married couples spending their vacations in a small provincial town.

Heath Will Display Keyboard Talent
HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) — Former British Prime Minister Edward Heath will display his talent as a piano player here in May.

In Hamburg's television studio, Heath will provide the musical accompaniment to Mozart's song "Die Warnung (The Warning)" featuring world-renowned soprano Anneliese Rothenberger.

Also on hand for the show's filming will be ballet dancer Rudolf Nureyev.

Ballet Premieres To Dvorak's Music
STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — William Forsythe's "Daphne" ballet recently had its world premiere at the Stuttgart State Theater to the musical accompaniment of the second and third movement of Antonin Dvorak's Seventh Symphony in D-minor.

With the help of the classical dance, the maestro transformed the love story of Daphne and Apolyn into gracious movements.

Austrian Viewers Protest for 'Kojak'
VIENNA (UPI) — The Austrian state television had to reinstate the U.S. TV series Kojak starring Telly Savalas after countless viewers protested against a planned change of the program.

Television officials said the Kojak series, shown here for the past two years, will be continued because of its great popularity.

'Gunsmoke' Returns To German Screens
WIESBADEN, West Germany (UPI) — The television western serial "Gunsmoke" returns to West German screens July 31, with the broadcasting of the first of 52 segments purchased by the ZDF network.

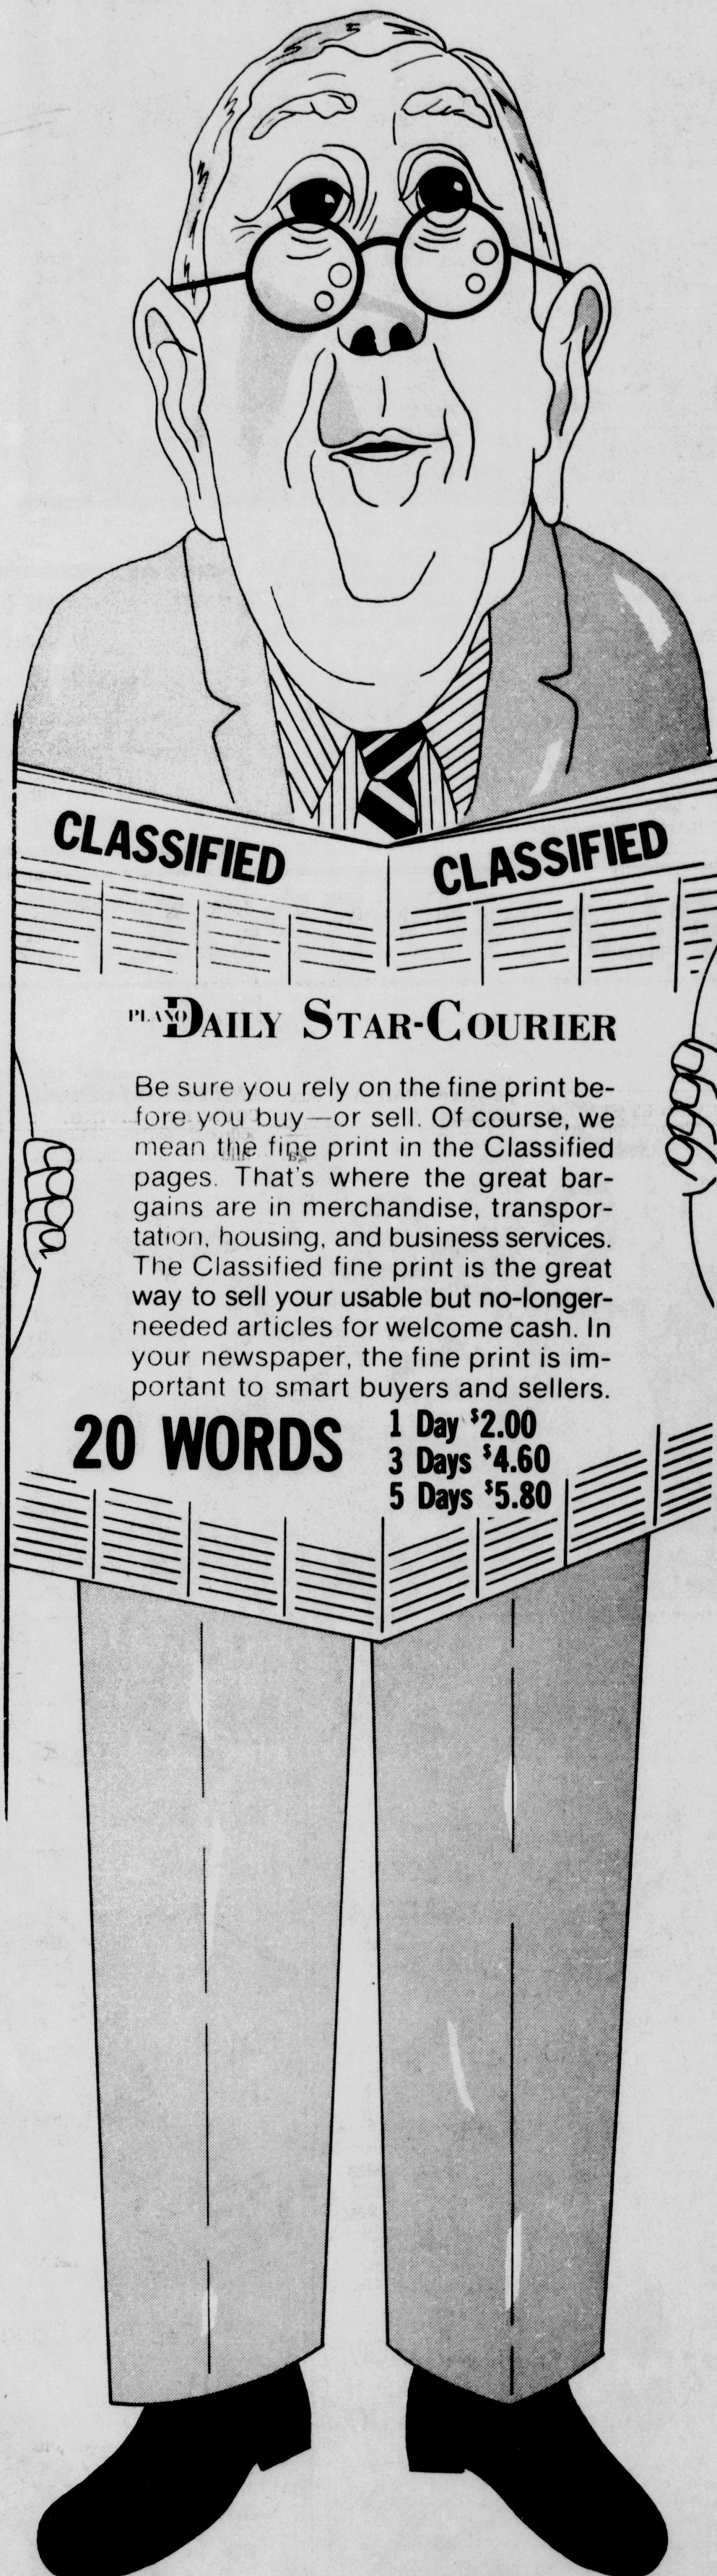

The series ran for several years on the ARD network, where it had the longest run of any western shown on German television, until supplanted during the early 70s by "Bonanza."

Middleweight Champ In Second Film
ROME (UPI) — World middleweight boxing champion Carlos Monzon of Argentina is starring in his second featurelength film, which is currently under production in Italy.

The film, entitled "El Macho," is a western starring Malisa Longo and Susanna Gimenez in addition to Monzon. It is being directed by Marcello Andrei and produced by Riccardo Billi.

Monzon's first film, also made in Italy, was entitled "The Account Is Closed," and dealt with big city organized crime.

High Scorers

By STEVEN R. REED
ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)
— Texas Ranger right-hander Doyle Alexander hears the critics of major league baseball's free agent shuffle and the grumblings of those opposed to the financial bonanzas which befell some of the game's stars, near-stars and even nonstars.

But like the carnival barkers' exhortation, he paid his money and took his chances. The articulate Alabamian refused to sign with New York last year and now swears, with a 5-1 record and 2.19 ERA to support him, he is winning because the risk he took gave him financial security and that in turn eased the pressures on the field.

"It was a calculated risk for sure and if I had had a bad year I might have gotten zero," he said between trips through suburban neighborhoods with his wife in search of a new home. "But I thought anybody who would sign me as a free agent would give me a chance to pitch."

A chance to start was what Alexander, 26, and already in his 10th professional season, wanted.

His success might have come about earlier at Los Angeles or Baltimore or New York if they had given him that chance.

"I just never got the opportunity at Baltimore. I did start 26 times for the one year (1973) and had a .600 winning percentage (12-8) but the rest of the time it was in and out of the bullpen."

"I was only 21 when I went to the Orioles, that's got to be a young guy's learning years, not his watching years."

"I've never been in the starting rotation on any team at the beginning of a season. Even the year I got 26 starts I started in the pen. At Baltimore you work hard getting ready to pitch during the spring and then sit down for a month and then the hitters catch up with the pitchers."

At New York, where he went from Baltimore last June, events occurred which made Alexander wonder about reality.

He won seven of his last eight decisions in pushing the Yankees to the American League East crown then sat on the bench during the last two weeks of the regular season and throughout the playoff series against Kansas City "and no one ever told me why."

He believed he was destined for the Yankee bullpen in 1977 and never signed.

"I thought even if I go to a lesser club I'll get to pitch, that more than money was important," he said. "I thought if I got a chance to pitch I would make money."

With the help of agent Jerry Kapstein he received more money — $900,000 for six years — than expected. "I got a better deal than people could foresee," he said. "It takes the pressure away."

"Look what happened last night. The young pitcher for Detroit (Dave Rozema) lost on an unearned run and next year will have to pay for it."
